

Beany Goes Through the water Cycle

Hi my name is Beany and I am going through the water cycle. I have to go through four stages until I am completely all the way through it. Right now I am in a puddle. Every five minutes someone is stepping on me. I really don't know what stage I am in. I really want to know what I am in.

Page 1

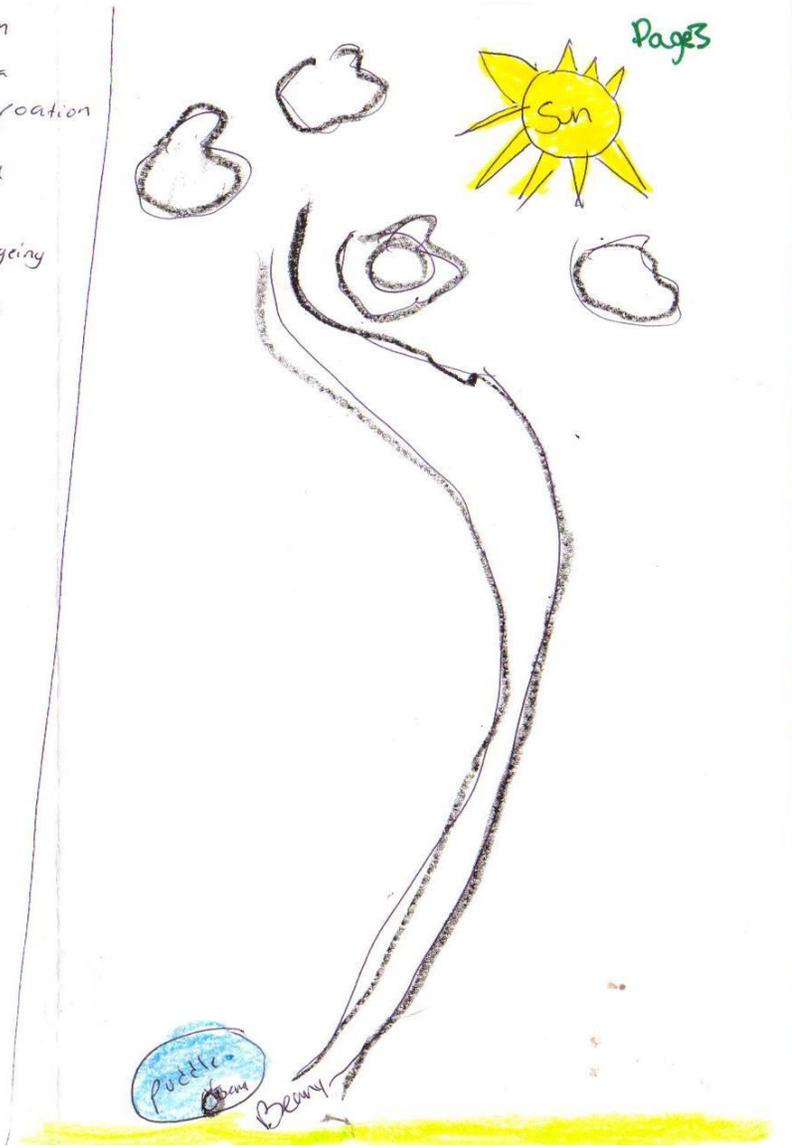

I think I'm about to go into evaporation. The puddle I'm in is getting smaller every day. I know the puddle is not leaking so the water must be evaporating into the air. I can feel myself lighter and less dense every day. Holy cow, I'm floating through the air. I'm a gas now.

Page 2

Now that I am a gas, I am going to tell how I turned into a gas. First, I was a liquid from evaporation. I moved into Condensation now. I am a gas in the clouds. I when I am a liquid then once I am done changing into the air I travel through the air around the clouds.

AM

Now I am in precipitation.
I can remember falling from the sky.
When I hit in the puddle it hurt me really bad. When I was falling it felt like I was flying. I thought going through evaporation was weird this is even weirder.

I think I am in transpiration.
Transpiration is where water turns into a cloud. Me, Beany, I am going to turn into a cloud. When I do I will be all the way complete of the water cycle.

When I went through transpiration
I started from a plant's stomata and then condensed into a cloud. I, Beany Mkuwani, am finished with the water cycle.

Pages

I Beany Mcwienie finally made it through the water cycle. It was distracting. I really did not like it, it felt weird. But me, Beany Mcwienie, made it through the water cycle.

Page 6

